DISPUTED.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The Times tomorrow will publish the following dispatch from Tien-Tsin: "The greater part of the Chinese forces were destroyed before Chu-Leang-Chang was evicted. Gen. Hung's official report praises the valor of the troops, but confesses they were outmatched by the enemies' weapons and training.

"COL. von Hannenken the German officer, who was formerly aide-de-camp of Li Hung Chang and who rendered great service to the Chinese admiral at the great naval battles fought between the fleets of China and Japan, has been summoned to Peking by Imperial edict to consult with the government in regard to the military situation."

CAPTURED ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

HIROSHIMA, Oct. 30.—The Japanese forces, who have been pursuing the Chinese north of the Ya-Loo River, captured at Atung twenty guns, many rifles and quantities of ammunition and provisions.

ANOTHER CARGO OF JAPS.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—A dispatch from the Pall Mall Gazette from Chee-Poo says that a fleet of Japanese transports, protected by minies, has been seen landing troops on the mainland of Kwang-Tung Peninsula, north of Elliot's Island.

A BUMP OF DEAD.

TACOMA, Oct. 30.—The ten carloads of pig-lead, sent here for shipment to the steamer Tacoma, will be left ashore when the steamer sails at midnight. No return has been received from Collector Saenger's dispatch to Washington asking for orders, and in consequence several carloads of the lead, which were loaded on the steamer this morning, were unloaded late this afternoon by order of the deputy collector.

Twenty years ago Henry Schatzel came to this country and finally settled in Brooklyn. Hearing accidentally of the fortune left by his uncle he went out to Texas and employed lawyers to prosecute his claim. As almost all the prominent people in the country named are interested he made no progress. He says his lawyer was bought off. Now he has placed the matter in the hands of Lawyer Walsh of this city, who will soon start for Corpus Christi. He is sanguine of success.

ALEC DOCTOR.

Mose Gunst Causes the Arrest of His ex-Salesman.

ASSOCIATED PRESS Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Acting under orders from the San Francisco officers, Inspector McLaughlin arrested Alex Doctor, the fugitive salesman who cashed a $4000 check belonging to Mose Gunst of San Francisco, and they disappeared. The police found that he was at the Coleman House, where he went yesterday after landing from an Atlantic steamer.

He had made a trip abroad from Mexico last June. He registered at the hotel as Joseph L. Blaide. He was arraigned in the Tomba Police Court, and was held without testimony to await a requisition from San Francisco.

MOSE WAS DECEIVED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Further particulars of the arrest of Alexander Doctor, the embezzler, were learned in this city. Capt. Lee received a telegram from Inspector McLaughlin, of the New York police force, that he had Doctor under arrest, and that he would keep him until the necessary papers were sent to New York from this city and Los Angeles.

Mose Gunst was seen in regard to the arrest of his defaulting commercial traveler. He said: "Doctor entered my employ a few years ago. He only received a salary of $50 a month. I took a liking to him and advanced him rapidly, so that at the time he robbed me he was getting $200 a month. His stealings amounted to $5000 in all. He collected $1000 in Sacramento and then went to Los Angeles, where he obtained a $3500 check from M. Polaski. He also had $5000 worth of samples with him, which he must have sold. I was astonished when I heard of his rascality, as I placed the greatest confidence in him. I have been deceived so much that I have placed all my under bonds.

"Doctor has wealthy parents in Milwaukee, and is well connected there. They may try to pay the amount of the embezzlement to get Doctor free, but they will never be able to square matters with me. I felt so bitter over having my confidence betrayed by one whom I treated so well that I charged up the defalcation to profit and loss some time ago. Now I want to see Doctor punished for his crime. I have already spent over $1000 in trying to catch him. I feel sure he went to Mexico and then took a steamer for New York. He will be brought back to Los Angeles, to be tried for cashing the $3500 check there, but several other warrants will be issued."

MINISTER DENBY CABLES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Minister Denby in a cable to the State Department from Peking today says the Chinese forces have been defeated at Chien-Lien-Chong and have retreated to Mukden. He also reports that the Japanese have taken one of the Chinese forts at Port Arthur.

The scene of the first engagement is just across the Ya-Loo River in Manchuria, and it marks the first real aggressive movement by the Japanese on Chinese soil. The Japanese are supposed to have formally entered upon the campaign with Moukden, the Manchurian capital, as the objective point. Unless they are fully prepared to make a winter campaign, something heretofore unknown in eastern warfare, they will be obliged to force the fighting as only fifteen days remain before cold weather comes.

In the neighborhood of Port Arthur where the second Japanese success is reported, the winter climate is not so severe, and operations may be maintained until much later. Experts in Washington believe that Port Arthur cannot be reduced by the Japanese without the use of heavy siege batteries, and, as far as reported, the Japanese are not supplied with this. Inasmuch as the capture of Port Arthur would give Japan control of the Peichili and cut off the Chinese capital from communication with the sea, it is believed the Japanese will make a most determined effort to capture the fortress. The belief that they are prepared to do this even if it involves a long siege and a winter campaign, is born out by the fact that agents of the Japanese government in this country have quietly bought up a vast store of goat-skins and practically cornered the market. These skins are commonly used in China and Japan as a necessary part of soldiers' winter raiment.

By the fire-escapes twenty tenants reached the ground, descending in the midst of flame and smoke before the ladder trucks arrived. On the third story there were three young children, two brothers, Annie Appelblat and Lena Mitchell. Nathan Friedman was aroused by smoke and noise. Clutching the baby in his arms he sprang to the window and descended by the fire-escape. Mrs. Friedman, too, had rushed to the window, but not where the fire-escape was. She leaped from the window and fell into the rear basement area.

The fire was discovered at 3 o'clock by the passers-by. There was no sign of life. To enter the house meant death. The only hope for those within was by arousing them by shouting. In a few minutes there was not a window in the front of the house that did not contain a wild and frightened face of a man, woman or child, framed in smoke, which poured forth in volumes.

Developments in Connection with the Denver Strangler Mystery.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

DENVER, Oct. 30.—The autopsy in the case of Marie Contasot, the French woman who was found apparently strangled to death early Sunday morning, leaves her death still a mystery. The coroner's jury can only decide whether she was murdered or not.

It is said that there is a secret society on Market street composed of Frenchmen who bring women from France, they agree to pay a percentage to the society.

It is also said that the society's members have banded themselves under the high sounding name of "Les Chevaliers d'Amour." The police believe this organization is responsible for the death of Mrs. Tapper, who was strangled in nearly the same way as was Marie Contasot, in the same vicinity a short time ago.

Recently a woman came to the Chief of Police and asked to be protected against a lot of Frenchmen who were trying to draw her from the society.

It was stated that members of the society were trying to prosecute her because she refused to join their organization.

A FRENCH MAFIA.

GREENWOOD (S. C.) Oct. 30.—A most diabolical crime was committed here last night while the colored folks were returning from a prayer-meeting. A party was waylaid and shot into. One man was killed; a woman was shot in three places and another man was seriously wounded. As the assassin has confessed, the situation is that if the prisoner can be taken away from the officers, a lynching is probable.

BROUGHT TO A FOCUS.

The District Attorney at Omaha is Pushing Van Siever's Case.

A ROBBER'S SHOT.Hold-up of a Stage Near Nevada City.*Arthur Meyer, the Driver, is Killed by a Lone High-wayman.*A Financial Crash at 'Frisco—Harry Hanchette's Mother-in-Law Does not Believe Him Alive—Steamer Aground.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.*NEVADA CITY (Cal.), Oct. 30.—Arthur Meyer, driver and one of the owners of the stage running between this place and North Bloomfield, was shot and instantly killed by a highway robber this afternoon.*At Rock Creek, three miles north of here, the incoming stage was stopped by a lone highwayman, who came out of the bushes, and stepped in front of the horses.*The bandit commanded Meyer to get down off the box. Meyer refused and the bandit fired twice at him with a revolver. The second shot passed through the driver's body and he fell forward into the boot in front of the coach. The weight of his body on the reins, which had dropped off the boot, prevented the four horses from running away. C. H. Boyce of Sierra county, who was the only passenger, was riding on the box with Meyer. When the robber began firing, Boyce jumped from the coach and ran into the forest.*The robber sent three bullets whizzing past him, but he escaped unharmed. So far as known, the robber received $100.*At 9 o'clock night the murderer of Arthur Meyer is still at large, and nothing more is known of his identity than that he was a short man with a heavy voice.*Within half an hour after the stage came tearing down Broad street at a runaway pace with the dead driver's corpse in the box, the highwayman was seen to dash off from his work in a field near the shooting, having held of the reins and Passenger Boyce, who is an invalid, croaking inside, weak and speechless from the awful ordeal he had gone through, scores of armed men started out to hunt for the criminal. They searched the mountains and canyons, and tramped every hiding-place for miles around, but all they found was the ruffian's discarded mask, made from an old coat lining, and his lunch. For more than a mile they followed his tracks. He was evidently headed for the high mountain ranges.*The every sign of him failed.*A number of determined citizens are still out, and will stay out all night in hopes of finding the criminal. If they should by chance run across him, the expectation is that he will be shot down like a dog.*Meyer was an Odd Fellow and a Native Son. His son, a boy of twelve years, has paid a $500 reward for the assassin.A young widow and two children of the murdered man excited the keenest sympathy among all their townspeople. Meyer was a bright, intelligent man, popular with all classes and noted for his strict integrity and purity.(The life of Arthur Meyer's death will interest many people in Los Angeles and vicinity. His parents died some years ago, leaving a family of young children, and his sister, Amanda Meyer, made her home with Mrs. E. A. Thurston of Nevada City, but now residing at No. 1217 West Tenth street in this city. She is a widow, having left the Normal School here in 1891, and subsequently taught school in Compton, where she now is. She was recently married here to W. F. Peck. Mrs. W. M. Scott, another sister, resides in San Jose. Mrs. Thurston states that Herman Meyer, a younger brother, was accidentally killed three years ago on a very rainy day. Arthur Meyer left his wife. The latter leaves a wife and two children in Nevada City.HARRY HANCHETTE.Mrs. Griffith, His Mother-in-law, Wins His Dead.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Griffith, who resides at No. 1050 McAllister street in this city, is the mother-in-law of Harry Hanchette. She said, when seen recently, that she did not believe that Hanchette had been found, as told in the dispatches."We thought at first when he disappeared that he had become temporarily deranged, as his head was troubling him somewhat before he left Chicago," she said, "but it is my belief now that he was murdered. If he is living and fully cognizant of who he is, as the telegram states, he would surely write to his relatives here, or his wife, and if cause of separation from his wife, which is not probable, he would communicate with me. I am certain that there was no reason why he should voluntarily remain away from his wife and family for his domestic life was always happy. He was a devoted husband and father. He could not afford to know that there was any reason why he did not wish to return to California."*Mrs. Griffith said that the dispatch intimated that Hanchette is remaining away until he can settle his financial affairs in California. "But his accounts were not straight, she added, and he was not in debt when he disappeared. On the contrary, money was due him as salary as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles and this sum was paid to him."*Mr. Griffith went on: "The books of the Chamber of Commerce were not straight, and I found that they were straight. The funds of the Los Angeles pavilion in Chicago were not handled by him and he could not have appropriated any of that money. He was an excellent man, and unless something wrong happened to him he would have been home long ago. The telegram says he has been found with gray hair. I do not think it is, if he is living. He does not run in his family to have gray hair."THE DALLES ROBBERY.Complaints Filed Against the Pris- oners—A False Key.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.*PORTLAND (Or.), Oct. 30.—United States Dist.-Atty. Murphy today swore to a complaint before Commissioner Lamson against Frank Klein, Otto Savage and Ralph Gibbons, charging them with stealing United States mails from The Dalles postoffice on September 16, Klein having confessed to their commission of the crime.*Klein's confession shows both the postal and express robberies to have been carefully planned. The plans, he stated, were matured while he was on a fishing trip to Badger Lake last August. Gibbons had a key to the express-office and turned it over to Klein, who made a plan.AN INSOLVENT DEBTOR.Financial Crash of James E. Carroll of Arizona.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.*SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—James E. Carroll has filed his petition in insolvency. His debts amount to $32,291.59. Carroll was interested in Arizona a year ago with one O. R. Smythe. The business, however, did not prosper, and after a dissolution of partnership, Carroll went to England to live.*Carroll's liabilities are made up as follows: George Carroll, $30,000; promissory note for money loaned, unsecured; Mary A. Carroll, $17,500, note unsecured; John*Abrams, $22,000, note unsecured. There are a number of smaller unsecured debts. The secured debtors are: J. T. Fleming, $335; State Controller Colgan, and the latter refused to pay it, on the ground that the law was unconstitutional. The Supreme Court overruled him on this point, but adjourned its contention that the law was unconstitutional, but his claim passed upon by the State Board of Examiners before presenting it for payment.ALWAYS THE WOMEN.Even the Methodist Church is Torn Up Over Them.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.*SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—An interesting election is to be held in the Methodist churches of San Francisco and Oakland on November 25. The subject to be voted upon is, "Shall women be sent as delegates to the church conferences?"*This question has been the source of much agitation and some acrimony in the Methodist denomination in America for a number of years. The women of the church have been doing their best to keep the religious world in suspense, and such has been the result that the Methodist denomination has consented to put the matter to a vote again, and elections are to be held throughout America during the coming month.*When the election was held before, the proposition voted on was clearly stated, but the question this time is put indirectly, and somewhat ambiguously. It reads: "Shall the restrictive rule be amended by adding the words, 'and said delegates must be male members,' after the words, 'two lay delegates for an annual conference,' so that it will read, 'Nor of more than two lay delegates for an annual conference, so that it will read, 'Nor of more than two lay delegates for an annual conference, and said delegates must be male members'?"*The church has decided that if this amendment does not receive the votes of three-fourths of the members of the annual conferences and two-thirds of the general conference, the restrictive rule must be construed that the word "lay delegate" may include men and women.MAJ. WHAM'S TRIAL.Objections to the Admission of a Deposition.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.*VANCOUVER (B.C.), Oct. 30.—The long-drawn-out trial of Maj. William Wham, of U. S. A., was resumed today, after an interval of nearly a month. The prosecution closed its case by producing the deposition of Beach, Maj. Wham's attorney in New York, who was supposed to have acted under instructions from his client in answering the demand of complaint, this being the main issue at issue. Maj. Wham's counsel, ex-Aty.-Gen. Williams, again interposed objections to the admission of Beach's deposition in evidence, upon the ground that the relations of client and attorney both under the New York statute law and common law were regarded as confidential and not admissible.*The court before deciding the question had the deposition read, showing in substance, that Beach had no authority in express terms to make the answer to the amended complaint or to make any defense whatever, or that Wham knew one had to be made, or that Beach made one. The prosecution, pointing to a question of the admissibility of the deposition, argued that its use would be prejudicial to its case, and the defense opened by demanding from the Judge Advocate the production of the telegram to Beach alleging that the telegram stated that Maj. Wham intended to make his defense, and that he had given up his right to do so, through Beach's gross carelessness, and neglect that judgment was obtained.*The Judge Advocate requested time to tomorrow to decide whether or not to produce the telegram, and pending this matter, the court adjourned until tomorrow.A BRIDE TO DEATH.Miss Caroline Tamm's Wedding-dress Becomes Her Shroud.*Associated Press Leased-wire Service.*SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Miss Caroline C. It reads: "Shall the restrictive rule be amended by adding the words, 'and said delegates must be male members,' after the words, 'two lay delegates for an annual conference,' so that it will read, 'Nor of more than two lay delegates for an annual conference, so that it will read, 'Nor of more than two lay delegates for an annual conference, and said delegates must be male members'?"The church has decided that if this amendment does not receive the votes of three-fourths of the members of the annual conferences and two-thirds of the general conference, the restrictive rule must be construed that the word "lay delegate" may include men and women.NO WARRANT FOR HIM.SANTA ROSA, Oct. 30.—Yesterday Mrs. Felicia Hunger, who lives in Ricon Valley, a few miles from this place, came into town and swore out a warrant for the arrest of her son, a man of 25, who had been drunk and disturbing the peace, but, upon returning home with an officer, she found Hunger dead, he having committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. He is supposed to have taken the poison while in a maudlin condition.TYNAN JUDICALLY ALIVE.MONROVIA (Cal.), Oct. 30.—Probate proceedings in the case of Dr. T. E. Tynan have been set aside by Judge Miner of the Superior Court. Tynan, a millionaire, made a will in San Francisco, and disappeared. The will was filed for probate and an administrator appointed. After a year and a half he died, and he left a will, which he had signed and witnessed, giving his estate to his wife, Mrs. George Renzel, now a resident of New York, and three unmarried daughters who are living in Sacramento. Tynan had been a member of the Knights of Pythias, and was a member of the Sons of the American Legion. He had a large amount of real estate in the hills above Glendale, and his wife had a large amount of personal property.TRADE WITH SCOTLAND.WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Further light is shown upon the working of the new tariff act by United States Consul Morse at Glasgow. In a special report to the Department of State he says:"Large orders are being received by merchants here since the passage of the United States tariff bill, and many of them have come from the German officials intended to act in the interests of the public health in excluding American cattle, as the sanitary regulations of that country are unusually rigorous upon all such matters. The Secretary of State thinks that the damage to our exports of meat to Germany are comparatively light. From his observation of his recent trip, Secretary Morton is convinced the exporting of live cattle cannot be made to pay as well as the shipping of dried meat."The establishment of increased facilities for shipping meats in cold storage, he thinks, will greatly increase the American business."TRADE WITH SCOTLAND.WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—In his annual report to the Secretary of the Navy, Judge-Advocate General Lemley comments favorably upon the working of the new law permitting sailors in our navy to be naturalized."The Secretary of State has no doubt that the German officials intended to act in the interests of the public health in excluding American cattle, as the sanitary regulations of that country are unusually rigorous upon all such matters. THREE TIMES TOLD.

Stanton Abbott Knocks out Charles Gehring.

The ex-Amateur Champion was out to fight, but he lacked caution.

Cycle Manufacturers and Class B Men—Some Billiard Averages—Trotting Horse Races—Meeting—Races.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—Stanton Abbott of England and Charles Gehring, ex-amateur champion of the United States, fought at the Academy of Music tonight. The fight was announced to be a six-round "go".

From the start Gehring began to force the fight, and the thousand spectators applauded every time he landed a blow. The first two rounds looked as if honors would be even at the end of the sixth round.

At the beginning of the third round Abbott got the opening he wanted, and landed a staggering blow on Gehring's neck. Gehring then became more cautious, and again Abbott became apparently careless. He led Gehring on and when he got the chance he made a half-right-arm swing and caught Gehring under the ear. Gehring fell, but was up again in eight seconds.

Abbott measured his distance and again let his right go. This time he caught Gehring on the point of the jaw, and Gehring went down and out.

CLASS B. MEN.

The Cycle Manufacturers Will Insist on Fulfillment of Contracts.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The board of directors of the National Cycle Board of Trade of America held a meeting last night at the Howard Club. Among those present were: Col. A. A. Pease, president; G. G. Spaulding, Phillip Gorman, R. L. Coleman, J. McKeen and William Redding. The most important matter discussed was the attitude of the manufacturers toward class B riders, whom the manufacturers say they are going to make lives up to their agreements. It is alleged by the latter that many class B men have been drawing a salary from one maker and have been riding for others.

BILLIARD SHARPS.

Ives and Schaefer Make High Averages—Billiards Daily.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Jacob Schaefer in his practice for his match at balk-line billiard with Frank Ives scored 600 points in eight innings, an average of 75. His best run was 268. His playing partner, W. A. Spinks, made 346 points. Frank Ives last night scored 600 points in six innings, averaging 100. His best run was 284.

Edward Fournil, the French billiardist, last night played at fourteen-inch balk-line game with Maurice Daly in the latter's room in Brooklyn. Fournil beat Daly 500 to 500 points to his 419. Fournil's highest run was 122.

THOSE BIKE RECORDS.

John S. Johnson Lays Claim to Pretty Nearly Everything.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

BUFFALO, Oct. 30.—Tonight it is claimed that John S. Johnson brought the bicycle for the mile unspaced down under two minutes. He made the mile in 1:57 4-5. This shows a regular furrow in the 2:07 1-5 which Sanger set for the mark and which Johnson has beaten by nearly ten seconds. The weather was threatening and the rain began to fall just as the squad came out to pace Johnson for the mile. The electric-timing apparatus worked to perfection, and what little wind did blow did not hinder the riding. The time at the quarter was not caught, but at the half the wheel passed over the line in 1:58 4-5, and the third quarter was done in 1:58.

Johnson is the first man in the world to break the trotting, pacing and running-horse records, the first man in the world to do the mile with flying start and with standing start in less than two minutes. No man ever did a mile in less than 1:58. John S. Johnson did the trick, but he can also claim that he beat the mile under 1:40, and now he is the only man who has done the mile unspaced in less than two minutes.

CRAZED OARS MEN.

Capt. John Crotty Arranging for a Regatta at Austin.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Capt. John Crotty, manager of the Austin International Regatta Association, has formulated a plan to bring about a match for the championship of America, to take place in Austin, Tex. The event will doubtless attract wide attention, as only crack oarsmen will be permitted to enter.

The proposed racing will be a four-cornered one, between Thomas Sullivan, the champion of England; John Teemer, Henry Peterson and Jake Gaudier, the first two to row for the championships of the world.

A STATE AFFAIR.

The Prohibition Against American Cattle Extended.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—By Atlantic Cable.) The prohibition against the landing of American cattle and American dressed beef, announced by a decree of the Hamburg Senate on Saturday last, as cabled to the Associated Press, was extended today to every port in Germany. Interviews with the correspondent of the Associated Press has had with the officials of the Interior Department of the Prussian Husbandry Department and the German Foreign Office would seem to show that the prohibition is of a preventive nature, and the action of individual German States.

The Foreign Office officials state that the prohibition is no affair of theirs, as the measures adopted are purely administrative and sanitary and that they strictly belong to each German State.

The empire, as such, does not have taken any step to prohibit the landing of American cattle or American meat.

The officials of the Interior Department say that the importation of cattle from America interferes with the laws of the empire, which last year the bulletins were received caused much trouble.

Touching scenes are witnessed in the streets. People uncover and cross themselves before the places where the bulls are paraded, and many of them are stoned. Cows and bulls, the bulls are distributed by several agencies and when one of these agents appears on the streets the bulls are snatched from his hands by the anxious people.

THE DANISH ROYALTY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A special from Copenhagen says that in consequence of an urgent telegram, the King and his wife will start tomorrow for Lividia. They will join the Prince and Princess of Wales on the way.

AN ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Yalta says that the sixth anniversary of the Czar's escape from death in a railroad disaster near Borok was celebrated yesterday with great solemnity at Lividia and elsewhere throughout Russia. At Yalta the services were conducted at the palace by the confessor of the Emperor, and were attended by the Czarina, members of the imperial family, the Queen of Greece and the guests of the imperial family. The banquet usually given on the evening of the anniversary was abandoned.

WALES IS SUMMONED.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—At the urgent request of the Czarina, which was received at Marlborough House this afternoon, the Prince and Princess of Wales will start tomorrow for Lividia, and will travel night and day until they get there.

HE RECEIVES HOLY COMMUNION.

YALTA, Oct. 30.—The Czar received the holy communion yesterday. The condition of the Czar is much worse today. All immediate relatives are here, including the Queen of Greece, court minister, Count Vorontsov-Dashkov, the Procurator of the Holy Synod, Father Podlesofets and Prince Dolgorouki, grand master of ceremonies, are all present.

VALUE OF A PUBLIC MARKET.

The late James Anthony Froude, in a book which he wrote descriptive of his journey around the world, made the following remarks in his chapter on San Francisco:

"The first thing I look for in a new city is the market. One sees the natural produce of all kinds gathered there; one sees what people buy on the spot and consume on the premises as distinct from what is raised for export; one learns the cost of things and can form one's own estimate of the manner in which the country people occupy themselves, and how they are able to live. The market place in San Francisco told its story in a moment. Vegetables and fruits, the finest that I ever saw, exposed for sale, were at half the English price. Meat was at half the English price. I lunched on oysters, plump and delicate as the meal-fattened Chester natives used to be, at a cent (a half-penny) a piece. Salmon were lying on the marble slabs, caught within two hours in the Sacramento River, superb as ever came from Tay or Tweed, for 3 cents a pound."

This emphasizes the truth of the assertion that has frequently been made by The Times that a public market place is an excellent thing for a city in more ways than one. Besides being a great convenience to consumers, it would serve as an advertisement of our resources, being, in some respects, even more valuable in this direction than such an exhibit as that which is made in the Chamber of Commerce, excellent as that is, for in a market place the visitor may not only see the various products, but ascertain the prices at which they are sold.

We again ask why the City Council cannot include an appropriation for a small amount of money in the proposed bond issue for the purpose of starting a public market place. It would not cost a large sum, as the site could, if necessary, be leased for a long term of years, and the city would at once begin to derive a considerable revenue from rents, even if there were made very low, as they are now.

WOOL AND CARPETS.

We are inclined to pity our esteemed contemporary, the Herald, just now, in common with other journals of the Democratic persuasion which find themselves in the unpleasant predicament of having to apologize for a policy that is deplored by a majority of the people of the country, including many Democrats, and the disastrous effects of which are already evident to those who are not wilfully blind. As we have remarked on several occasions, it is not at all surprising to find the Democratic press and Democratic orators confining themselves as much as possible to local issues. They can, however, entirely evade the tariff question. Such a complete silence on the leading political issue of the day would be too ominous, too suggestive of acknowledged error—in short, too much of a "dead give-away," to use an expressive slang phrase.

Therefore, we occasionally find one of these Democratic journalistic advocates who, sitting down gritting his teeth and "taking his pen in hand," courageously essays to prove that black is white, that two and two make five, and that poverty is an unalloyed blessing. Thus the Herald comes to the defense of Democratic free wool. We have published some facts of a very "damaging" nature in regard to the injury which has already been done to this important industry, but not a tittle of what might have been said on the subject. Yet the Herald thinks wool is all right, because a sale of fifty tons of Texas wool has been made in Boston "for shipment to free-trade England at more than 1 cent per pound more than could be obtained for it in New England." If wool has fallen so low that there is nothing in raising it and that it can be shipped to a country where low wages prevail, we fail to see where the congratulations to the American producer come in. We do not know what one cent over the New England price represents, but if it is anything like the price prevailing in this section, where the sheepmen are bankrupt, it would not pay the cost of production.

The Herald further "points with pride" to the fact that the wholesale price of carpets has fallen 15 per cent. There will doubtless also be a considerable falling off in the cost of diamonds, statuary, paintings and other similar articles of necessity, upon which the Democrats have reduced the duty, but it is difficult to see how that is to compensate for the ruin of a million people engaged in the sheep industry. The question with them will not be so much the cost of carpets as the possibility of getting a roof over their heads. A shake roof and a dirt floor will be about all they can hope for until the Republicans come into power again.

In that section of Ohio where the finest merino sheep are raised the price at the close of the Harrison administration was from $3 to $4 a head. Now the farmers of that section are trying to sell the finest merinos at 65 cents to $1 a head, and recently, on a farm near Pataskala, a number of sheep were sold at $4.50 a dozen, which is about what they are worth in Southern California, when they can be sold at all. In some cases it has been found impossible to get any price for them and they have been abandoned to the coyotes. The owners of these sheep would undoubtedly be delighted to sell their wool at one cent more than the New England price—or any other price—for shipment to England—or any other country—but even if they succeeded in doing so we doubt much whether they would be able to indulge in the luxury of carpets, even at the reduced Wilson price.

WARLIKE AND THREATENING.

Here is another proclamation from an Ohio lunatic who has been pouring manifestations in upon The Times for a month past. We will designate this one General Order No. 5:

COLUMBUS (O.) Oct. 20, 1894.

Your Honor, President Cleveland:—In the name of the United States of America I demand peace from all the people in the United States.

(2) I hereby call out United States troops to protect the U. S. Mail and all the interstate commerce in those States where in need of protection.

Yours truly,
 HERMANN MUELLER, U.S.M.

In the death of Secretary of State E. G. Waite, which occurred at his home in Alameda early yesterday morning after a brief illness, the State loses an efficient and faithful official, no less than a good citizen. Mr. Waite had occupied the office of Secretary of State for some four years, and in that position had won the esteem and confidence of his fellow citizens by his conscientious devotion to duty, and by his able management of the affairs of the office. He came to California in 1849, being one of the pioneer settlers of the State, and during nearly half a century of residence in California had been identified in one capacity or another with its development and progress. His sudden removal from active life will be deeply regretted by his fellow-citizens in all parts of the commonwealth.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press has made an approximate estimate of what it has cost the State of Colorado to elect a Populist Governor. It finds that $300,000,000 of value in the State have been destroyed, while the credit of the State, as well as the borrowing power of individual members of the community, has been reduced to an actual nullity. Through fear of hostile legislation, capital refused to enter the State, or to remain there, when already invested, a moment longer than it was bound by contract to remain. There has been a shrinkage of all values, ranging from 50 per cent, to 150 per cent as a direct result of Populist control of the State. This is a high price to pay for the luxury of a Populist State government. Now, in his eighty-second year, he astonishes the country with a "ringing" speech, more radical than a Populist platform. "The Money Power" is the theme of the discourse. But the venerable orator forgets that while one set of "vast fortunes" is being accumulated another is being dissipated. It is a very rare thing in this country for great wealth to be handed down undivided. It is not true that "the great masses are doomed to incessant toll, penury and want." On the contrary, wages are higher now in proportion to cost of subsistence than they have ever been. The accumulation of "vast estates" by the "few" has been going on in all countries in all ages, but our system of government has provided against the chief danger of such accumulation, by rendering it impossible for a man to tie up or keep together an estate, with its accumulations for successive generations.

PETROLEUM AS FUEL.

We are inclined to pity our esteemed contemporary, the Herald, just now, in common with other journals of the Democratic persuasion which find themselves in the unpleasant predicament of having to apologize for a policy that is deplored by a majority of the people of the country, including many Democrats, and the disastrous effects of which are already evident to those who are not wilfully blind. As we have remarked on several occasions, it is not at all surprising to find the Democratic press and Democratic orators confining themselves as much as possible to local issues. They can, however, entirely evade the tariff question. Such a complete silence on the leading political issue of the day would be too ominous, too suggestive of acknowledged error—in short, too much of a "dead give-away," to use an expressive slang phrase.

Carl Schurz, in an address before a large meeting of Reform Democrats at Cooper Union Monday night, scored David B. Hill unmercifully as an enemy to Democratic harmony, "the ablest traitor to Democratic principles and policy," the "ablest demolisher of Democratic virtue," etc. If the enthusiasm which greeted Mr. Schurz's remarks can be taken as an indication of the feeling existing in New York city and State, the prospects are that Everett P. Wheeler, the Reform Democrats' candidate for Governor, will poll a very large vote. There is not much doubt that Levi P. Morton, the Republican candidate for Governor, would be elected over Hill in any event, but the candidacy of Wheeler will be likely to swell his plurality to large proportions.

In a speech recently delivered at Parkersburg, W. Va., Mr. McAdoo, Cleveland's Assistant Secretary of the Navy, not only expressed himself in favor of free wool, but referred contemptuously to the wool-growers of this country as "American greasers."

He further stated that in his opinion it was a "Republican outrage" to protect these "greasers" by a duty on imports of foreign wool. Mr. McAdoo and other enemies of the sheep industry will learn in due course of time that these "American greasers" have some very decided opinions on the wool question, and, furthermore, that they know how to express those opinions through the ballot-box.

Carefully prepared statistics show that the average decrease in the number of workmen employed in the United States for the first six months of the present year was 30 per cent; decrease in the amount of wages earned: 45 per cent; decrease in output of factories, 44 per cent. Voters should bear these figures in mind next Tuesday.

One of the Democratic registration clerks in Chairman Wilson's district has refused to register some 200 negro voters in one county, alleging as a reason that he is not acquainted with the applicants, and that if they wish to register they must bring two witnesses to identify each man, and must be prepared to prove that they are legal voters. It is by such tactics as these, in conjunction with the expenditure of that $30,000 corruption fund which has been sent into the district, that Mr. Wilson and his friends hope to secure an "endorsement" of the policy of free trade and industrial disaster.

It is useless for the supporters of James H. Budd to attempt to dismiss the indictment against him in connection with the Neff affair as a "campaign slander." It will be time enough to call these transcripts from the court record a slander when they have been shown to be either false or malicious. Up to the present time no such showing has been made. The indictment therefore stands against Mr. Budd, and shows him, in the present aspect of the case, to be an utterly unfit man for the office of Governor of a great State.

The cotton market, like the wool market is flat, and prices are so low as to afford the grower scarcely any profit. But the Southern planters have no kick coming. It is simply a part of the Demo-free-trade regime, which means low prices and stagnant markets for all commodities, including labor.

The women of New York city are taking an active part in the present campaign, and they are not espousing the cause of Tammany. It is very doubtful, however, if either men's work or women's tears can avail much against the cast-iron cohorts of the tough-skinned old tiger.

The present production of crude oil in California aggregated 50,000 barrels monthly, the principal producers being the Pacific Coast Oil Company, the Puente Oil Company and the Union Oil Company of California.

The output could doubtless be materially increased. The qualities of the productions of the different fields vary greatly. The oils from the northern fields are very heavy. The lighter oils are extensively used for producing gas. The Puente oil, which is sold principally in Los Angeles for fuel, has a specific gravity of about 33 deg. Beams.

About 60 per cent. of the production of the Puente Oil Company is average 33 deg. Beams, the remaining figure, 40 per cent., being 23 deg. So far, oil has been found only in the southern part of the State, and as none of the producers have any other facilities than tank cars for getting the oil to this market, the producer has been such as to give coal the preference.

The Union Oil Company has about decided to build a tank barge to carry oil in bulk from their wharf at San Buenaventura to San Francisco, and the reduction in transportation charges will be such as to enable oil to compete successfully with coal.

The following table shows the equivalent prices of oil and carbon. Hill is figured on the above ratio of 1.37 to 1, and taking the oil as weighing 110 pounds, which is the result of a number of determinations at the fair:

CALIFORNIA OIL.

Crude Petroleum and its Use as Fuel.

Report Prepared on the Subject by
 A. M. Hunt of San Francisco.

The Present Production of Oil in the State—Different Views as to the Value of Oil Versus Coal.

The oil developments in Los Angeles have interested many in the subject of petroleum, as used as a fuel and its value in relation to coal. The Times has received from W. C. Williams, copy of a report on California crude oil and its use, made for the Technical Society, by A. M. Hunt of No. 210 Pine street, San Francisco. Mr. Hunt is a graduate of the Annapolis Military Academy, has made a study of the oil question, and had full charge of the experiments made for the boiler at the Puente.

The source of error arises from the fact that the oil becomes heated to quite a high point by radiation from the furnace, the difference in expansion of the iron shell and brass tube of the burner makes the steam orifice smaller. The amount of the steam opening is so small that this error becomes very large.

It was very desirous of getting a small boiler to burn steam heated to the oil line, to make a more economical use of the burner, but was unable to do so. I should consider the actual amount of steam used in the burners in this case as being from 5 to 6 per cent. of the developed power. A good burner should not use more than 3 per cent. of the steam furnished by the boiler.

There is another item which fully offsets the loss due to steam used in the burners. This is the gain from having no coal or ashes to handle, and the reduced number of men necessary to handle the boiler plant. One man to tend water and one to tend burners will handle boilers of from 1 to 3 times the horse power.

The following table shows the equivalent prices of oil and carbon. Hill is figured on the above ratio of 1.37 to 1, and taking the oil as weighing 110 pounds, which is the result of a number of determinations at the fair:

All economic considered.

Oil per barrel. Coal per ton. Coal per ton.

$1.00 $1.00 $1.00

1.10 1.03 1.03

1.20 1.40 1.35

1.30 1.77 1.49

1.40 2.14 1.61

1.50 2.51 1.94

1.70 3.25 2.61

1.80 3.62 3.04

1.90 3.98 3.43

2.00 4.35 3.83

The third column is figured on the basis of the statements made by Dr. Charles B. Dudley in his lecture before the Franklin Institute. He gives the relative evaporating powers of oil and coal as 1.75 to 1, and then remarks as follows:

"There are certain chances for economy in burning oil which do not exist with coal. Of these, there have been pretty well worked out, as just stated, economy in handling coal and ashes, and economy in repairs. The amount of these has been obtained in dollars and cents, and in perhaps best expressed by saying that taking all these economies into account, a pound of petroleum is as good as a pound of coal."

Taking this same proportion, the results in the third column are obtained. The direct advantages of the use of oil fuel for generating steam are many. A petroleum fire can be held in perfect control with the greatest ease. The heat produced is more uniform, and the temperature is much more easy, when using oil, to keep a uniform pressure with a varying load. By turning a valve, you can instantly extinguish the fire, if occasion does not require its use, and it can be quickly started with a few shavings or other kindling. When the work is done, the fire is instantly shut off, and there is no smoke or unburned fuel, with which to pollute the atmosphere.

There being no necessity for opening doors for the introduction of fuel, there are no fluctuations in temperature to induce destructive strains in the boiler. The absence of sparks and cinders, and the difficulty to extinguish the fire instantly in case of danger, makes the use of oil very desirable; when considered with a view to safety.

The utilization of oil as fuel for other purposes than the generation of steam is subject to which I hoped to be able to speak at some length this evening, but I am afraid that the audience will be disappointed in my failure to do so.

The variety of uses to which it has been put by Eastern manufacturers should be a guide to the people of the East, and in many cases there is no doubt that these are true. We merely say that these things are true, and that the people of California believe them to be true, and regarding his published letters, whose authenticity is not denied, sufficient justification for such belief.

(Fresno Register) The conviction is general that although a married man and residing under the most sacred obligations to a young person whose welfare was confided to his charge, Mr. Budd was weak enough to fall in love with Nancy Neff, his ward, and when he did so, he was unable to get sufficient data to do so.

This little man, dressed in the "tuds" has cost the Democratic party thousands of votes. It was too bad that Cleveland did not accompany him; then the effect would have been truly grand.

If untrue, the publication of a grossly criminal libel, and the editor should be put behind the bars. It is well, is true, that Budd and his friends are pursuing the only course possible—that of silence.

Weekly Meeting of the Police Commissioners.

The Usual Amount of Saloon Business Disposed of—Licenses Granted.

Matters of Interest at the Court-house—Banning—Marieau Case—Probate Matters—General Court News.

At the City Hall yesterday the Police Commission held a short meeting, at which action was taken on a number of applications for saloon licenses. A few of the Councilmen were about the building attending to committee work on matters to come before the adjourned meeting of the Council, to be held today.

At the Courthouse there was but little outside of the regular routine business. Several civil cases were on trial, but nothing of special public interest developed.

At the United States building the Federal courts were in session, and several matters were attended to by Judge Ross.

AT THE CITY HALL.

Police Commissioners. SALOON AND RESTAURANT LIQUOR LICENSES CONSIDERED.

A short meeting of the Police Commission was held yesterday morning. Commissioners Bosshard, Arnold, and Mayor Rowan were present.

The resignation of J. W. Bell as a member of the regular police force was received and accepted.

In the matter of the application of J. J. Nicholson for a saloon license at Nos. 102 and 106 South Los Angeles street on which it was last week reported that the petitioner had not obtained the consent of the owners of two buildings in the block, it was stated such consent has since been obtained. On motion it was ordered that a license be issued to the petitioner.

The application of Hierholzer & Crone for a saloon and also a restaurant liquor license at Nos. 129½ and 131 East Fourth street, was considered as laid over from yesterday. The report in the matter stated that the applicants had not yet put in restaurant facilities, they evidently waiting to see if they can get the license as asked for.

Commissioner Bosshard moved to grant the petition for a saloon license, but not for a restaurant liquor license. Action on the question was, however, laid over till next week.

The Chief reported through Secretary Moffatt on the petition of Henry Pfirman for a transfer of the saloon license at No. 300 East First street from A. C. Bell. The petition was granted. The petition of M. M. Steele & Co. for a saloon license at No. 211 East Fourth street was laid over.

The applications referred to the Chief were from J. W. Henley for a saloon license at the northwest corner of Main and Sixth streets; of George Eichberg for a transfer of a saloon license at No. 285 South Los Angeles street from Fred Hoppe; Felix Clavare for a saloon license at No. 226 Aliso street, and of Louis Degeorges for a restaurant liquor license at No. 644 New High street.

An application of T. J. Mooney for an appointment on the regular police force was filed.

"Dick" Brown, the colored bill poster, appeared before the board and submitted a complaint alleging he had not been properly treated by certain police officers. The complaint was not returned to him. It was told the would have to be done before it would be considered by the Board. Adjourned.

Reducing Expressmen's Licenses.

The following Finance Committee report has been prepared for presentation at today's adjourned meeting of the City Council:

"In the matter of the petition of C. E. Beebe and others, asking the Council to so amend the ordinance providing for the licensing of expressmen, as to reduce their license fee $1 per month to $1 per quarter we recommend that the same be granted and the City Attorney instructed to prepare and present the necessary ordinance amending the section of the license ordinance in accordance therewith."

Regarding Dismissals of Policemen.

The question has been raised as to whether the ordinance passed by the Council at its last session, providing that no police officer shall be dismissed from the force without a public hearing, if he demands it, can be enforced. It is argued that there is no penalty provided whereby a dismissal from the police force shall not be effective if made contrary to the ordinance.

It is stated, however, that the measure was drawn to conform with the section of the city charter which says that besides the powers and duties therein enumerated the Police Commission shall have such other powers as may be conferred upon it by ordinance. It is, therefore, under the ordinance just passed, made the duty of the Police Commission to comply with the provisions of the ordinance, and if that body fails to do so the members taking part in such failure may be impeached by the Council for neglect of duty.

For Refunding City Bonds.

It is expected, if there be no hindrance, that the ordinance of intention for the calling of a refunding bond election will be presented by the City Attorney at the adjourned meeting of the City Council today. The institution of proceedings of this sort was recommended by the City Attorney and the Council at Monday's meeting directed that such ordinance be presented. As has heretofore been explained the proposition is virtually the voting of bonds, by the sale of which to raise money to pay bonds now outstanding, while retaining a heavy interest and are being paid in larger annual installments that would be useful in the case of the former.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The Fire Commission is to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the City Council at 10 a.m. today. It is expected that among other matters to be considered the Finance Committee will present a report regarding the complaints about the telephone slide.

Yesterday's report of the City Council meeting showed that the Council had stated that the phone on West First in the neighborhood of Grand and Olive, where it was complained that the Electric Railway Company had left the street in bad condition, were ordered put in proper condition at the expense of that company. It was further stated that the matter was referred to the Board of Public Works and City Attorney.

A number of the Councilmen will visit the oil well locality this afternoon for the purpose of examining the routes over which franchises have been asked for prior to the time when other information about matters in connection with the oil development, which are now pending before the Council.

There appears to be some prospect that decisive action in the matter of city charter revision will be taken in the near future. The report of the several organizations of business and professional men have come not far from an agreement with the members of the City Council as to the general provisions of the new document. On minor provisions there has been little disagreement.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

The Courts.

THE BANNING-MARLEAU CASE—PASADENA LAND TRANSACTION.

Judge Van Dyke and a jury of eight were occupied in Department Four yesterday in the second trial of the case of Mary H. Banning vs. W. M. Marleau, an action to recover a number of horses, cattle and farm implements held by defendant, as Contingent Consideration for a writ of attachment issued for the property of Joseph Bannon, by whom they were sold to Mrs. Banning.

At the first trial judgment was rendered for the recovery of the property, but there being no prayer that the same should be rendered permanent, the answer, the Supreme Court reversed the case and remanded it for a new trial in February last.

The case was not concluded yesterday, and will be taken up again this morning.

A PASADENA LAND TRANSACTION.

The case of Lilia Wills et al. vs. C. C. Brown et al., an action arising out of a Pasadena land transaction, came up for trial before Judge York, in Department Three yesterday, and at the close of the evidence was submitted to him for decision.

Mrs. Wills alleged that, in September, 1897, she gave Brown $100 to invest for her as a deposit, but that he did not invest it, with another member of his crew, by purchasing a one-quarter interest in a tract of land, which cost $35,000. He did not, however, tell her anything about his purchase at that time; but, later on, when she pressed him for her money or its equivalent, he told her what he had done, and guaranteed her a five cent interest on the amount when it was given him.

He said that if she let him the money when it was given him, Believing his representations, she let the matter go, but subsequently, learning that the property, being in his name, had no security or title, she brought this suit for the purpose of having it judicially declared that Brown holds her share of the property in trust, and that he is bound to give her an accounting of her share of the rents, profits and issues from said property.

THE WEINGARTH ESTATE.

In the Probate Court yesterday afternoon Justice Clark was occupied in hearing the petition for the removal of the guardian of the estate of the Weingarth minors, upon the ground that he is not a proper person to hold said office; but the matter was not concluded, and will be taken up again today.

From the pleadings and testimony introduced yesterday, however, it was gathered that the estate was not the matter than appealed upon the surface.

George Weingarth, deceased, left a widow and three minor children surviving him at his death, and, at his widow's request, her brother, William A. Heiss, a merchant in business at Pasadena, was duly appointed as guardian of the estate of said minors. In due time Mrs. Weingarth died, and found another mate, in the person of W. H. Syme, who evidently desires to handle the estate of his step-children himself, for it was at his instigation that Mrs. Syme filed the petition demanding the removal of her brother from the office of guardian.

However, it was Mrs. Syme's petition alleges that, when Mrs. Syme's petition was filed, her brother was innocent, and otherwise unfit for the position, her sister, Miss Emma Heiss, has sworn that Mrs. Syme admitted that she did not know what she was swearing to when the petition was presented to her. Furthermore, it was shown conclusively that Mrs. Syme had solved over, and had then herself expressed their confidence in his management of their estate, it is not unlikely that their uncle will remain in undisturbed possession.

Court Notes.

In the Probate Court yesterday morning Judge Clark heard and granted the petition of J. Downey Harvey, the administrator of the estate of John G. Downey, deceased, for leave to sell the interest of said real estate in the Cucamonga Wine Company of this city.

The defendant in the case of Charles H. Howard vs. the City of Los Angeles, having filed his disclaimer to the property in controversy, Judge York yesterday ordered a decree quieting plaintiff's title, a lot in the Goodwin tract, as prayed for.

The trial of the case of Balfour, Guthrie & Co. vs. A. W. Hale et al., an action to foreclose a mortgage on lots in the Elmwood tract for $3835.40, was concluded before Judge McKinley yesterday morning, and resulted in judgment for the plaintiff, as prayed.

Judge McKinley heard and granted the application of Eller L. Broadbridge for a decree divorcing her from her husband, L. C. Broadbridge, and granting her the custody of her minor child, on the ground of desertion, by default.

Pursuant to stipulation therein filed, Judge Shaw yesterday afternoon disposed of the case of M. McGreal vs. A. D. Childress et al., by dissolving the copartnership hitherto existing between the parties, and ordering him to remit to defendant the $2500 worth of street-improvement bonds among the effects of the deceased.

And in the face of that James H. Budd had never lifted a hand to preserve her grave from neglect and desolation.

According to his own story, told in that singular "explanation" which he lately gave to the public, Nancy Neff, when she died, brought her, sought to prove her gratitude for his "friendly and fraternal affection" by willing him all her property. But neither this same fraternal affection or the alleged act of the betrayed and dying girl in leaving her all had the effect of inducing him to see that even the commonest care was bestowed on her last resting place.

He had time enough to hasten to Oregon with a certified copy of the alleged will of the dead girl, and there to use every endeavor to establish what he called his right to the homestead on which her wronged and bereaved parents depended for their welfare, but he had no time to look after her grave.

There are many and many graves which, in the course of time, take on the appearance of neglect through no particular fault of those who, did circumstance permit, would prevent anything of the kind. This is the case with the remains of the late Bishop of Stockton, who died recently, and left to the control even of the most loving relatives. But this is a different case.

Since the day when Nancy Neff's grave was closed above the body of the girl whom James H. Budd had brought to her death, hiding forever, as he undoubtedly intended, the head of affection has never touched it. The cemetery authorities did, of course, all that is expected of them, under their rules and regulations. At the head of the grave they placed the usual plain wooden cross. It is there still—weather-beaten, battered and awry, but still standing. And that is all.

The grave is unenclosed and absolutely devoids of even the slightest indication of care. Across the plot, and even traversing the foot of the grave itself, is a footpath which has been beaten solid by the feet of people seeking to take a short cut, leaving no reason apparently why they should not take particular heed to the nameless resting place which everybody else had neglected.

There is something of pitiful pathos in one circumstance appertaining to this forgotten grave. From an adjoining plot a vine bearing a little white flower has crept over the foot of the battered cross. Except for this there is not a blossom nor a plant upon it, except for the untended grass.

The one side of the grave is a plot on which stands a headstone erected "in memory of David Byrnes, a native of County Cork, Ireland, etc., etc., and bearing the simple prayer, 'May he rest in peace.' On the other side is the resting place of Ellen Hyde, 'Beloved wife of Michael Flaherty,' etc., etc., and here, too, appears the fervent invocation, 'May her soul rest in peace. Amen.'

On the other side of the girl whom the man who now wishes to be Governor lured to shame and death, there is nothing.

Struck a Big Blow.

The latest big strike in the oil region has been made by the East Side Oil Company. On Saturday night a blow was struck which promises to develop into at least 100 barrels a day. It is already running sixty barrels, and is of very fine quality, the specific gravity being 19.

In the United States District Court yesterday morning Garland Baker, who was jointly charged with C. E. Smith, the San Diego counterfeiter, with having uttered base coin, appeared before Judge Ross, and after withdrawing his plea of not guilty, substituted that of guilty thereto, whereupon the court ordered him to reappear for sentence on Monday next.

NANCY'S GRAVE.

The Last Resting Place of Budd's Victim!

A Sadly-neglected Spot in an Obscure Corner of Calvary Cemetery.

The Place Now Serves as a "Short Cut" for Visitors—Evidence of Budd's Brotherly Love.

The San Francisco Post, continuing its expose of the perfidy of Jim Budd, the Democratic candidate for Governor, in its issue of Saturday, says:

"Almost at the summit of the hill in Calvary Cemetery, in the midst of the quietest graves of the thousands who have been buried there since the quiet resting place for the dead was first opened, is a little square of ground, 12x12 feet in size, and on either side are other plots guarded and fitted up with railings and monuments, and, in various other ways, showing indications of the loving care of those whom the dead left behind.

"But not the slightest attention has ever been paid to the grave which lies between them. Grass-grown and wholly neglected, the grave is today an evidence of the perfidiousness of James H. Budd.

"It is the grave of his victim, Nancy Neff—the girl whom he betrayed and left to die in the posthouse.

In the letters of simulated remorse, which he wrote to the parents of the lost girl, after his crime had resulted in her death, Budd exhibited realms of paper and ink in declining his undying love for her, his grief over their loss, and his determination to live for her sake and to cherish her memory. His chief thought was to love those whom she had loved; to dwell amid the scenes which recalled her in the days of her life and happiness; to sit by her side, to comfort her, which could tend to shorten his life, but to shorten it, he said, was to shorten his own.

Justice Austin looked at the complaint for a moment and remarked that it was drawn from the usual situation in which a man had been ruled by the woman a number of times before. He therefore gave the time to give time to prepare a defense.

Mr. Hotchkiss made some remarks in which he intimated that he, as well as the court, knew something about law. He said, and proceeded to draw up a memorandum for the defense, and to submit that the case be continued till today, in order that he might have time to submit a demur to the complaint.

Mr. Hotchkiss said he would like to have the case set for some time not earlier than next week. He would be very busy this week. Deputy District Attorney Davis said he would like to have the case set for trial as early a date as possible, for the District Attorney's office will be heavily burdened with trials.

Justice Austin stated that he will have a great many cases to try next week, and set the trial for 10 a.m. Friday. Mr. Hotchkiss said he desired to file an application for a change of venue, and was told he could file such application today. A jury trial was demanded by the defense.

FIELD OF POLITICS.

Second Meeting Held at the Wigwam.

Spencer G. Millard, Maj. Donnell and Several Other Speakers Heard From.

Gen. A. B. Campbell Addresses First Ward Republicans at Banquet Hall—Much Enthusiasm Manifested.

The second mass-meeting, held last evening in the Republican Wigwam, drew forth a large crowd of people, both men and women, who gathered to listen to the speeches made by those who came to address them. A brass band played for some time before the meeting opened, at the Hill-street entrance to the big tent, and by 8 o'clock the seats inside the wigwam were nearly all taken. Then the band was sent around to the Broadway side, where it again played several patriotic airs.

President Chamberlain of the Federation of Clubs called the meeting to order, as he had done on the night previous. He introduced Dr. S. H. Boynton as chairman of the evening.

Dr. Boynton said, as he came forward, that he would make no extended remarks, but would present Col. E. M. Smith as the first speaker. Col. Smith started in by saying that he was glad to be in a Republican community, where the people were alive to the best interests of the country. He had lived in the East, and knew what it was to be under Democratic domination. The speaker was brief in his address, merely touching upon vital points raised in the present campaign. He urged the voters to support James McLachlan and the entire ticket.

Spencer G. Millard, Republican nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, was introduced plainer than the large body of Republican voters present had made up their minds to vote this year for a probable candidate for the office, to which the major aspirer with such bright prospects of success, as opposed to the almost unknown Populist nominee.

Mr. Millard's outline of the situation, with reference to the tariff question, presenting some stray arguments in defense of the impregnable attitude of Republicans. State issues were taken up in a clear and logical manner, and, as he closed, Mr. Millard was warmly cheered.

T. D. Merwin, nominee for County Clerk, spoke a few words regarding his candidacy. He said that if elected to the office of County Clerk he could go in entirely free from embarrassing promises or pledges and would endeavor to serve the people in a fair and satisfactory manner.

At 7 o'clock, when the drawing of the ticket was heard next. He was followed by A. H. Merwin, nominee for Tax Collector, and C. F. Bicknell, candidate for County Auditor, who made short speeches. Frank Kelsey was also heard.

Maj. Donnell was introduced by Dr. Boynton as the candidate for District Attorney, whom the Republicans believed would receive a large majority of votes next Tuesday. Maj. Donnell thanked the presiding officer for the complimentary manner in which he had been introduced. He proceeded without a word of preface, to the glee of a thousand and convincing speech. He said that the voter would be called upon soon to exercise the highest duty of American citizenship—that of casting their ballots and he hoped that this duty would be performed faithfully and well. In a good-natured way the man of the people told the audience for which his obscure opponent had gone through to secure what was known as a "double-headed" nomination, evoking much laughter among the audience. Maj. Donnell, according to his usual and commendable practice, made but little reference to his own party, speaking for the good of the party, as a whole. The tariff question was discussed in a general and comprehensive manner. Throughout his speech the speaker received an almost continuous applause and when he once threatened to stop on account of the lateness of the hour, there were cries of "Go on, go on." He spoke for over an hour and held the attention of his audience very closely to the close of his speech.

The following were the vice-presidents appointed to serve at last evening's meeting:

K. Crawford, J. W. Meyers, H. C. Wilcox, A. E. Powers, A. L. Bath, W. S. Daubenbacher, N. A. Bonham, John Crimmins, Dr. J. D. Moody, Joseph Holmes, Robert A. Douglass, M. D. Morse, James Call, George N. Lockwood, Col. E. E. Danforth, H. S. Weeler, R. W. Kinsey, F. P. Freeby, Curtis de Garmon, Horace G. Miller, A. G. Rivers, Randal Shepherd, J. H. Herford, H. C. Lichtenberger, John Lowell, Scipio Thompson, L. E. Brubaker, M. L. Starrin, John McMillan, Fred A. Day, G. W. Shelby.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING ON THE EAST SIDE.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the First Ward Republican Club was held last night in Banquet Hall at the corner of Chestnut street and Downey avenue.

A number of candidates were in attendance but the features of the evening were the formal introduction to the residents of the First Ward of Frank Rader, the Republican nominee for mayorality, and the speech of Gen. A. B. Campbell.

Mr. Rader delivered a brief address, in which he took occasion to deny emphatically that he had any connection with the Lindsey-Webber combine, or that the speaker's position was true. His speech was necessarily curtailed on account of another engagement at the Wigwam.

Gen. Campbell, however, made ample amends for the short-comings of the local speaker, as he held the attention of his audience for over an hour, and even then the crowd was anxious for more.

In Antelope Valley.

MCLACHLAN'S EFFECTIVE WORK—THREE SPEECHES.

James McLachlan returned yesterday from a campaign tour in the Antelope Valley country. During the trip he made three speeches in twenty-four hours, and in the same time traveled about 100 miles by wagon. He arrived at Lancaster at 8 o'clock Monday evening, and drove from there to Fairmount, where he had a large meeting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. McLachlan had three speeches composed largely of grain and fruit-growers. Mr. McLachlan's explanation of the effect of Democratic tariff tinkering upon those industries was very convincing. From Fairmount Mr. McLachlan drove to Neenach, where he addressed another large meeting in the evening. The people in this industry are the most interested in the fruit industry, and the speaker was one of the speakers of the region. The Antelope Valley group took the World's premium at the California Exposition last year, and although in the industry there are naturally quite jealous of any national legislation adverse to it.

Mr. McLachlan's proofs that the principal work of the last Democratic Congress was adverse to all the productive industries of the Antelope Valley were conclusive, and the people of Neenach and vicinity were quick to recognize and approve the points of his argument.

From Neenach Mr. McLachlan returned to Lancaster, where he addressed a meeting yesterday morning at the unusual hour of 9 o'clock. It was a large meeting, and the speaker the closest attention until the arrival of the train for Los Angeles.

The sheep and wool industries are also largely represented in the Antelope Valley country, and there are few Democratic voters among flock masters or herdsmen after they have heard Mr. McLachlan's conclusions on the effect of the tariff tinkering of the last Congress upon their industry.

McLachlan at Norwalk.

A STRONG TALK TO THE SUGAR-BEET RAISERS.

Mr. McLachlan's appointment for last night was at Norwalk, and the meeting was a large one.

This locality is especially adapted to the production of the sugar beet, and produces large quantities that are marketed at the Chino factory. Capitalists had arrangements well advanced toward the construction of a factory at Norwalk, when the Democratic blacksmith began to hammer at the McKinley tariff, and thereby killed the Norwalk enterprise. That the people of this vicinity were not ignorant of the things as shown by the speakers with whom they agreed to support Mr. McLachlan's references thereto last night.

The dairy is another big industry about Norwalk, and dairymen who are voters, when they are reminded of how the Democratic Congress reduced the price of milk by 13 per cent., and how the cattle industry was ruined, etc., etc., were last night by Mr. McLachlan, are not inclined to look any longer with that party.

An effective part of Mr. McLachlan's Norwalk speech was his exposé of Congressman Cannon's double-dealing, and his betrayal of the people. He showed how Cannon, who was and is always a Democrat, organized the Farmers' Alliance on a non-sectarian and non-political basis, and then, after he had succeeded in becoming its State president, manipulated it so as to form the People's party; how he secured the nomination for Congress from the People's party; how he represented to the People's party, how, after his election, he made haste to renounce and betray the People's party by working at Sacramento for the election of a Democrat for United States Senator, and how all his votes in Congress questions in which Populists are vitally interested, were cast in favor of the Democrats and against the party he had helped to organize.

A Populist "Reformer."

POINTS FROM THE PUBLIC RECORD OF BARTHOLOMEW.

Grove S. Bartholomew, the man who, through a series of unfortunate circumstances, was elected as Justice of the Peace two years ago, and who wants the people to re-elect him to the same position this year, is out on the street every day now endeavoring to "make votes."

He no longer wears the white ribbon to signify that he is in sympathy with lawless strikers, but his leaning toward the "Commonwealth" element is too well known to necessitate the hanging out of a sign upon his person to let the public know where he stands.

The Times has on several occasions called attention to the manifest unfitness of the man for even the petty office he now holds, and the comments passed by attorneys and citizens generally bear out fully all that has been said regarding the Demo-Pop candidate.

Recently the following communication was received, which is but a sample of the record in which the public hold Bartholomew:

"Justice Bartholomew, has taken offense at some honest remarks made regarding his nomination for the office of Justice of the Peace, his exceptions being taken to the statement that 'robbery and incompetent lawmen should not be permitted to hold office in a community of law-abiding citizens,' and, to bolster himself up in the eyes of the community, he has obtained the signatures of a number of lawyers to a petition, which he himself circulated and begged the individuals to sign, of which his is the best kind of evidence of his recklessness. When it becomes necessary for a judge to beg the attorneys practicing before him to sign a certificate of good character for him, there is need of reform. But it would be as well for Justice Bartholomew to go to sleep."

"If the gentlemen who signed the aforementioned petition will take the pains to look at case No. 19,512, Conroy vs. Geller, Superior Court records, and mentioned in the court reports of The Times, May 8, 1894, they will find, without going further, that this man Bartholomew shows they indeed are an incompetent lawyer. In said case they will find that the learned judge sat for several days trying the aforesaid cause, and finally rendered judgment, which judgment was appealed from and taken before the Superior Court, and Justice Bartholomew, the case became the Superior Court had no appellate jurisdiction, the reason of which being that any lawyer should have known, that the Justice Court had no jurisdiction to try a cause involving the title to real estate, and the whole facts being set out in the District-Attorney's office of Bower should be relied, which appears to be a very vain hope.

"Now, as to being a 'spitit Justice,' without particularizing, the record of your year's grand jury, while Justice of the Peace at Garvenson, in this township, and having this country out of $33 per month therefor, is not sufficient to establish his roguishness, why some people are hard to please, and you know the leper never changes its spots."

The speaker has already referred to the case of Conroy vs. Geller, and the records show that what is stated above is true. One of the first things a law student learns about, the organization of the State and county courts is the distinction which arises regarding matters of law and equity, namely, every citizen knows that a Justice of the peace has no authority to try a case involving the right or title to real property. Bartholomew did not know this evidently, and proceeded to judgment in the cause. The Superior Court at once ruled, when an appeal was taken, that the Justice Court had no appellate jurisdiction, as the Justice Court should not have tried the case in the first instance, as stated in the above communication.

It is also true that Bartholomew has a record as a "tramp" on the roads held in great esteem, while Justice of the Peace at Garvenson, he nearly always allowed to draw up enough cases to raise his fees to the limit of $33.22 per month allowed by law. The statement has been made that he kept a buggy on the road almost continuously gathering up tramps all the way from Garvenson to Bakersfield. The monthly reports filed during his term at Garvenson show that but few months over went when the "thrifty" Justice did not "draw down" from the county funds the round sum mentioned. Meanwhile, as a result, many tramps who were on their way out of the State, were brought to the County and held for days at the expense of the taxpayers.

Since he entered the office he now holds, Bartholomew has manifested the same grasping propensities. The civil business has netted him a fair salary all along, and, in addition to this, he has still drawn cases in the county, and held for days at the expense of the taxpayers.

Bartholomew has manifested the same grasping propensities. The civil business has netted him a fair salary all along, and, in addition to this, he has still drawn cases in the county, and held for days at the expense of the taxpayers.

Henry T. Hazard was given an enthusiastic ovation by a large party of his fellow citizens, gathered in front of the National Hotel. His home town of Victoria in some hot political arguments, in which he had defined his position very clearly, and, as he moved down the street, was given three cheers and a hearty tiger.

A largely-attended political meeting was held in the schoolhouse at Eagle Rock Valley, Monday evening, at which William Young, J. C. Scherer and James Burdette and a Mr. Savage, a Populist.

One feature of the meeting was the large number of Populists who were in attendance. In fact, a Populist pre-however, and he continued to send in his claims and to receive their rejection complacently, for he had another trick which proved very successful, and he found that he had not drawn all the money from the county treasury that could be drawn, so he added up the amounts of the several claims which gave a total of $109.25 and put in another demand. Deputy District-Attorney Utter although a rank Populist himself, could not allow to do this, so he said that it was not the intent of the law to allow justices fees in cases in which jurisdiction had never been obtained over the person of the defendants. Mrs. Dillon, however, was inclined to look upon her fellow Populist's claim with favor, and being called in, she added up the amount of the official "O.K." upon the demand and the county was obliged to stand the expense.

These few points regarding Bartholomew's public career may suggest reasons to the voter why the man should not again be favored with the office of Justice of the Peace.

Mrs. Swan on Mrs. Galpin.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—(To the Editor of The Times.) By request of a few noble women who have responded to my call for "old-fashioned women," and the privilege she so graciously accorded, to "let the best girl win," I will continue to deal with facts and not side issues. As to criticisms on my articles, I see nothing worth taking up. Evidently Mrs. C. W. exhausts all the violence of the "claw" period. That the Galpin is a "bad girl" will continue to do damage to the Populist cause.

Judge Foster said that this came up in the act of 1888, defining the district in which a suit may be brought, either in the district where the plaintiff resides or in the district where the defendant resides.

The motion to dismiss the injunction proceedings was then ordered dismissed as to the non-resident defendants, B. P. Cheney, J. A. Blair of New York and D. B. Robinson of Illinois, they being the only non-resident stockholders who had been served with process of the court.

Judge Foster then announced that as far as the Kansas defendants, C. K. Holliday, C. S. Glead, E. Wilder and L. Severy, are concerned, the injunction must hold, and it was so ordered.

The attorneys for the defendants then asked for an adjournment of time of 2 p.m. that the night and the evidence they wished to file before proceeding with the argument of the case on its merits. They said it was necessary to amend their evidence on account of the decision of the court, to which they wished to conform.

Gen. Tracy said he was opposed to any adjournment, but the adjournment to 2 p.m. was finally granted.

The afternoon session opened promptly. Woolman was first to occupy the attention of the court with the introduction of the plaintiff's evidence. It consisted of a number of extracts from the first volume of the printed records documents and papers of the San Joaquin & San Fran. Company.

Woolman made a brief statement for the plaintiff's side, in which he said it would be shown that nearly every right the company was enjoying had been granted by the State, and that by accepting these subsequent enactments the road had practically abandoned its original charter, and had so far violated it as to bring it into collision with the old provisions regarding the voting.

An affidavit from C. S. Glead, one of the defendant receivers, was read, which declared that the Santa Fe had never declared itself a corporation under the laws of Kansas, and always claimed that it existed under its Territorial charter. He denied that the Kansas charter had been violated in any way, and that the company's action in suspending or desisting of controlling the stockholders' meeting; he affirmed that only 216 shares out of 102,000,000 were owned by the four defendants named, and that they could therefore accomplish very little if they desired to control the meeting; he denied that the company had ever violated the provisions of the charter in regard to the voting of stock had always been compiled with the statute, and that the defendants were not trying to perpetuate themselves in office; he claimed that the defendants only desired to assist in the carrying out in the election the unbroken usage of the thirty-five years' existence of the company, and affirmed that the plaintiff was setting up a claim to a right which was contrary to the charter and laws of the company.

He denied that the defendants desired or intended to vote the treasury stock and said it would be a physical as well as a legal impossibility to do so if they did not desire it, as this stock was in the custody of the receiver, Edward Woolman, trustee in the Santa Fe, in which he boasted that by availing himself of the laws of the State the company became a corporation of the State and affirmed that the officers and company had always complied with the rights and privileges of their charter and never violated any law concerning the same.

In conclusion I wish to state that late last evening I was informed that later on the Galpin faction was going to publish these articles, simply copied them off, and I am trying to prevent their publication.

This letter came to me entirely unolicited. I have never met her, but my heart claims her for my sister, her words of sympathy and good cheer from a sick bed have been like "oil on troubled waters," and her devotion to the principles for which I am fighting give me all the aid I want.

I don't doubt but what public office has been attained by as questionable means as these I have been told of. It is bad enough for men, but in the present case I cannot but think that the women are equally bad. I will not say all the trouble. I can prove by a dozen or more people that have seen me writing, as all the privacy I have is a public music-room and general parlor, have read extracts to my scholars and friends. I will say one more for "backing." I have a long line of friends and acquaintances who have cared anything for me, and I will not say all the trouble.

Yours for the right MRS. S. M. SWAN.

Political Points.

W. H. Chamberlain, president of the Federation of Republican Clubs, has been chosen grand marshal of the Knights-Millard Parade, arranged to precede Saturday night.

Drummer Kish Trask, he of the solid six' school board, is said to be engineering Populist Bowers' campaign, in the hope of securing a deputyship in the District-Attorney's office of Bower should be elected, which appears to be a very vain hope.

The work of the Republican Legion, recently formed in this city, is rapidly progressing. A large number of names are being added to the rolls, and Republicans are constantly visiting the headquarters at No. 115½ North Main street to place themselves in line with other Republicans.

Tomorrow evening, between 8 and 9 o'clock, there is to be held a mass-meeting, to be addressed by a number of prominent speakers, who will deliver short and crisp speeches with music intervening.

Tomorrow evening, at the Wigwam, Conroy vs. Bowers will be delivered an address prepared by remarks from Justice Bartholomew.

The Republicans of the Second Ward are preparing for a grand demonstration and mass-meeting, at which Gen. A. B. Campbell will deliver the principal address. The Committee on Arrangements are preparing for an interesting programme, and it is designed that the event shall bring out all the voters of the district.

The Committee on Arrangements for the grand demonstration for Saturday evening, November 3, met in the headquarters of the Federation of Republican Clubs yesterday afternoon. The preliminary details were arranged, and the date set for the meeting.

The meeting will be held at the Wigwam, 104 S. Spring, opposite the National Hotel, and the address will be delivered by Gen. A. B. Campbell.

The speakers will be selected by the committee on arrangement, and the program will be determined by the speakers themselves.

TO PAY THE INTEREST.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—An order has been filed in the United States Court for the payment of $432,123 due the Southern Pacific for the use of the Pacific-Santa Fe and St. Louis and San Francisco.

The order directed that a special master be appointed to determine the benefit and advantages derived by the three roads from the use of the Mojave division.

The interest is to be paid by November 1.

LAKE SHORE'S PRESIDENT.

PASADENA.

THE WEEKLY MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

Application of the Southern Pacific for a Franchise Over Certain Streets—A Strong Protest Filed.

PASADENA, Oct. 30.—(Special Correspondence.) At the adjourned meeting of the City Council, which convened at 9 a.m. today, all the members were present, President Lukens in the chair and Trustees Cox, Washburn, Weed and Hamilton in their accustomed places. In the lobby were J. A. Muir, superintendent of the Southern Pacific; Stanley P. Jewett, right-of-way agent for that company; L. P. Hansen, Attorney Metcalfe and others, who were more or less interested in sundry matters to be brought up.

After the disposition of certain routine work, the City Clerk took from the table and read a document worded as follows:

"To the Honorable Board of Trustees of the City of Pasadena: The undersigned, your petitioners, respectfully show: (1) That they are residents of the city of Pasadena, and the owners of property situated along and fronting upon the streets in said city. (2) That it has been recently reported, and there is reason to believe that an application will be made by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for a franchise to construct and operate a railroad on said street, between Colorado and California streets, in said city. (3) That the construction and operation of railroads on said street will be highly injurious to the property of your petitioners as residence property, and will result in great damage thereto. Whereas, your petitioners respectively, yet earnestly, protest against the granting by your honorable body any franchise for the construction of a railroad along said street, and request that any such application for such a franchise be denied. And your petitioners will ever pray."

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The application of M. L. Clark for permission to erect a one-story brick-veneered building on the corner of Colorado and Delacy streets, was granted.

The request of J. T. Banphay for permission to put up a wood and corrugated iron shed on Broadway near Colorado was referred to the Street Committee with power to act.

The petition of Villa-street property-owners to have the official grade of that street established was granted. Another petition, asking the board to order the street graded, curbed and guttered between Main and Robine Avenue was held over. The board hopes to see the street improved in that manner throughout its entire length.

The petition of Garfield avenue property-owners to have that thoroughfare graded to the center line of Ipswich street, was referred to the board that it be held over until the City engineer can prepare specifications for gravel streets.

Reports from City Engineer Clapp regarding a re-establishment of the grade of Walnut street and the establishment of an official grade on Cypress avenue, were received and placed on file.

PASADENA BREVIETES.

sense to be paid six months in advance. Mr. Metcalfe said that such an ordinance would not hold, and asked that a small bill be passed on all tracks in the city, and referred to Justice Hayes to see if transient people, who come to stay only during the busy season. The suggestion was not acted upon, and Judge Weed's motion prevailed. Trustees Washburn alone voting no.

A LITTLE JOKER.

About the time when the Council seemed about to adjourn a little matter was brought up incidentally, only as a master of form, but involving several points that some people may want to think over. It appears that some time since the last regular meeting, the board met somewhere in secret and made some important alterations in the electric street railroad franchise, which was supposed to be ready to advertise. The clause requiring the company to charge no more than 15 cents fare from any point in Pasadena to any point on the company's lines in Los Angeles was changed, so that the Los Angeles terminal point is the corner of Spring and Fourth streets and Broadway and Fourth street, thus permitting the collection of another nickel from passengers to any other point. Another clause that was changed so as to nullify the one specifying that the company could not only carry passengers, but parcels, express, in packages not exceeding fifty pounds in weight, and United States mail. The amended franchise says that the care of the company shall be run for "no particular purpose that does not affect traffic, passenger, express, baggage and United States mail," which leaves nothing to be desired. Trustees Cox opposed this, on the ground that it would permit the company in future to haul freight trains of as many cars as it wanted, and that the board, in turn, would get no bond control. But little of the household furniture was saved. The loss will be about $1,000. Mr. Culp has been conductor on the Tustin Southern Pacific train for the past several months. He was telegraphed in Los Angeles today of the loss of his property.

SANTA ANA TRUSTEES.

The City Trustees met Monday evening in adjourned meeting, with all the members present except Meares and Harvey. Sealed bids to furnish 20,000 gallons of fuel oil for the city waterworks were read from the Union Oil Company of California, the Los Angeles Fuels Oil Company and the Clear Oil and Asphalt Company. Upon motion a committee of two, consisting of Messrs. E. E. Gallup and Charles A. Hunt, were appointed to consider the bids, with power to act.

A communication from F. E. Keach, secretary of the Public Library trustees, notifying the board of the resignation of Dr. A. Menges as a trustee of the library board, was read, and, on motion, the same was laid over until the next regular meeting.

The board adjourned to meet Monday evening, November 5, at 7 o'clock p.m.

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

As the campaign progresses the local political situation becomes intensely interesting. The contest over the Assessorship is just now attracting a great deal of attention and the race promises to be a very pretty one. In the earlier part of the year Mr. W. H. Smith, the Democratic candidate, was considered by many to have a "walk over," even though his party is in the minority in the county, but the past few weeks a radical change has been taking place and Mr. Vegeley, the Republican nominee, has been forging ahead in a most satisfactory manner to his many friends.

The claim has been made for the Democratic nominee by his party press that he was the poor man's candidate that the rich men of the county were fighting him because he made them pay up more taxes than he paid himself. But the facts are to the contrary. In its recent issue, propounded the following pertinent questions to Mr. Ross, which, up to the present writing, have not been answered, although Mr. Ross states that he will answer them before the election:

"Why did Jake Ross assess certain property of the widow of J. W. Layman for just $1500 more in 1883 than he assessed to Joseph Yoch (a poor man) in 1884, after Mr. Yoch foreclosed on the property?"

"Why did Jake Ross assess the property of Mrs. Mabel Sherman, a widow, ungratefully, sharp-quoted, yet a kindly heart beneath the rough exterior. Mrs. M. M.
